THE PUBLIC FOUNTAIN, erected last year by the "Temperance Legion," on the corner of Bethel and King streets, seems to have pretty nearly dried up. One pipe does not un at all, and the other drizzles feebly. For Ser Francisco, per Idaho, August 7.—Hon E. The fountain was a good institution, and Allen, Wife, 2 children & sevent, P.N. Makes, Dr. many a thirsty soul has felt grateful to the 'Legion' for the cooling draught. It is to be hoped that those public spirited lovers of cold water, "free to all," will not permit their fountain to remain as merely a parched monument to their worthy enterprise, but permit us to hear its cheerful song agalo.

Among the passengers for San Francisco by the Idaho on Saturday last, were Chief Justice Allen and family, and Marshal Parke. 24 We noderstand that Judge Allen intends to return by about the last of the year. Marshal Parke contemplates making a "flying visit" east, and will not, probably, be absent more than two months. Besides the above, by the same vessel, we note the departure of Messrs J. H. Paty, P. Relations Between England

The letter from the sober and thoughtful New York correspondent of the Daily News, printed last Thursday, gives a complexion to the character of Mr. Sumner's speech which renders it imperative on the friends of the North, in England, to make it quite clear in America what must be the inevitable result of any kind of demand based on Mr. Sumner's principle. In discussing his speech last week we were anxious to do fall justice to the American no less than to the English to the American no less than to the English to the American no less than to the English side of the question, and gave our view of the equity of the controversy. But we did not then seriously contemplate even the possibility that America would take up practically the attitude which Mr. Sumner indicated as the only one she ought to take up, If the question were to be reopened at all. We had then no real fear that it ever would be recovered by America. If it could only be training. August 31st was agreed upon today as the time for the match.

prepared to go beyond this. Incre is not the party or the ghost of a party that would as much as consider the question of spologising for our recognition of the belligerent rights of the South. There is not in all probability in any society of Englishmen, however Northern in feeling, even a man here and there, who would hear of such a proposition as our paying as general damages any proportion, however small, of the cost of the American war, on the ground that by recognising the South we gave substance and hope to the rebellion, or on any other ground which legenious Senators may hereafter devise, without indignation; or who would not at once advise war, with all its horrors, rather than submit to dictation so preposterous. We do not doubt—we speak, as we need hardly say, without any private communication with Mr. Bright—that Mr. Bright himself would resist such terms as Mr. Summer proposes and General Grant is said to approve, with positive scorn,—that even he, a Quaker statesman, would rather keep silent than propose to avert war by any compromise so disgraceful. We believe that the people of the United States ought to know our true minds on this matter. We are sure that they can trust us at least for honesty, moderation, and a hearty sympathy with their great cause in the late civil war. And we tell them emphatically that no war ever entered upon by England would be more popular, more heartily waged, more tenaclously prolonged, than a war to resist what we should regard as a piece of pure dictatorial arrogance on the part of the United States wish for such a war,—which we sincerely and beartily disbelieve,—they have only to demand reparation on the general principles of Mr. Sumner's speech, and they would meet with dignity accept; and the end could hardly be anything but war, and a war, moreover, in which England would be united as one man,—in which there would not be a dissentient party, hardly a dissentient voice.
